Home sweet fucking home

Alexi threw his keys on the table and closed the door. Welcome home, he thought, as he was returning from their last tour. It wasn't home, however, it was just a house.

He switched on the television in his bedroom, closed the curtains and took off his shoes. He hadn't slept for two days. He grabbed one of his guitars and lay on the bed cradling it in his arms.

Anxiety was already creeping in at the back of his distressed mind.

He picked up the remote and turned up the volume before closing his eyes, hoping to fall asleep.
